ALC has remained among the strongest fundraising partners for the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) for more than seven decades. Our secret weapon? The commitment and creativity of letter carriers at the branch and state association level who dream up new fundraisers or find ways to boost the effectiveness of old standbys.

"Our goal with MDA is not to sustain our fundraising each year, but to build on it," NALC President Brian L. Renfroe said. "To do that, we rely on letter carriers at the local level to volunteer, raise funds, and have fun in the process."

Letter carriers' efforts to support MDA help children and adults with neuromuscular diseases, as well as their families, who depend on MDA for medical research and support. NALC has been one of MDA's top supporters since the charity was founded in 1950. Two years later, the union adopted MDA as its official charity and became its first national sponsor. Branches nationwide took their commitment to MDA into their communities.

Since then, NALC branches have stepped up with fundraising events that increased our fundraising totals to millions of dollars each year. With bowlathons, golf and poker tournaments, fill-the-satchel drives and dozens of other kinds of events, branches and state associations bring donors in. Letter carriers also support MDA by volunteering at MDA Summer Camps and other events.

Carriers also rely on internet tools created when the COVID-19 pandemic forced the suspension of traditional fundraising events. Those tools were so successful that NALC kept them in place to supplement in-person fundraising.

MDA works in close collaboration with NALC to offer similar online tools so that letter carriers can focus on the fundraising, such as event websites that track donations. Branches add the details of their events and enter the RSVPs, payments and other data, which automatically go to MDA.

MDA can help with fundraising details as well, from tax information to assisting with donation letters to offering an MDA-branded template for publicity materials. The popular shamrock, summer camp and holiday pinups that donors can buy and display their names on a wall also are available. The charity can even arrange for a nearby MDA ambassador with muscular dystrophy to attend an event to represent the people whose lives MDA affects.

"We have the technical tools ready for you," Assistant to the President for Community Services Christina Vela Davidson said. "All you have to do is plan the event and get people there. This is how we've succeeded in building our support for MDA for so long."

Every year, NALC recognizes the top fundraising branches. On page 27, you'll find the MDA Honor Roll, listing branches that collected the most donations for MDA in 2024, along with the list of what each contributing branch and other offices brought in. This year, representatives from the top branches will be recognized with a trip to an MDA Summer Camp in Wisconsin.

We also bring you some highlights of the events from across the country that carriers organized to raise a total of $1,125,912.18 for MDA last year.

"I'm so proud of what they've accomplished and thank them for their hard work," Vela Davidson said."We're here to help them with whatever they need to support their efforts."

An outsize effort

Representing carriers in a large geographic area, Northeastern New York Branch 358 has many carriers in several communities to work with when raising money for MDA. It's enough to support multiple events in different places.

"Our area is huge," Branch President Chris Jackson said. "We're 260 miles long, our branch. So, we do two—we do a golf tournament up north of our branch, then we do a golf tournament down south."

Jackson organizes one of the branch's two golf tournaments held at different courses many miles apart. "Most of our members are towards the south, but I live up north. So, I've been running one up north since something along the lines of 2009," he said. "I started out with a bowling tournament up here. Then in 2015, I went to the golf tournament."

That tournament, in Plattsburgh, also organized by branch member Ann Beatty, honors "Mighty Matthew" Chech, a young man with muscular dystrophy and grandson of retired Branch 358 member Patrick Henry. Chech attended and played in the tournament, which attracted about 40 players in all.

Outside of Mechanicville, 150 miles south of Plattsburgh, the branch's other annual golf tournament brought a record 140 golfers last year. With raffles of donated items and hole sponsors included, the two events roughly raised a combined $17,000.

At the 73rd Biennial Convention in Boston last August, Branch 358 was recognized as the top fundraiser for its size group. Jackson said the branch takes advantage of its size and location. "We end up usually raising more money per person," he said, "because we're kind of geographically isolated."

But the branch's success is about more. With Chech among them as a personal reminder of their impact, and another young man with muscular dystrophy who unfortunately died last year, Derek Murphy—nephew of branch MDA volunteer Michael Curran—the branch has embraced MDA's mission and sponsors several other events, including a pub crawl to honor Murphy.

"It's always been a goal of the branch to be one of the leaders at MDA," Jackson said. "We've got personal stakes in it."

Baggers compete for MDA

After a chance visit to a "baggers" venue, Nick Langenfeld revived a lost idea for a cornhole tournament at his branch.

A few years earlier, another member of Southeast Massachusetts Merged Branch 18 had mentioned the idea of an event involving "baggers," as cornhole players call themselves. In cornhole, players toss beanbags at the hole in an inclined wooden platform. But the pandemic nipped the event in the bud. Then hunger jogged Langenfeld's memory. He happened to visit Stone Path Malt in Wareham, which often hosts cornhole competitions.

"It was probably early in 2022 that I happened to go to the venue," he said, "just to go in and grab a bite to eat and stuff. They had a tournament going on. So, I was watching the tournament and just was like, 'Man, this looks like a lot of fun.' And it was for a fundraiser as well."

Langenfeld, a Branch 18 carrier for 20 years, approached the people holding the tournament and learned that using it as a fundraiser would be easy. The cornhole tournament organizers had all the equipment and technology—a scoreboard and system of iPads for each pair of cornhole boards, along with a host on a microphone to organize play. All Langenfeld had to do was pick a date, recruit players, and raise money for raffle prizes to boost the fundraiser.

Langenfeld signed up enough carriers for 28 teams of baggers, each paying a small entry fee. The organizers found an additional 12 teams of regular players to fill up the remaining spaces, divided into a "postal division" and a "competitive division." The venue space was free—Stone Path Malt provided the space to help sell food and drink.

The Illinois State Association hosted a "Groovy Disco Party" at a roller rink in Summit to raise funds for MDA.

After paying the organizers, the amount raised for MDA came to $3,700 last year, the third year of the event. Carriers Tom Rebello and Tom Mendonca won the competition.

The best part of the event, Langenfeld said, is that anyone can play cornhole.

"We've done golf tournaments. We've had basketball games," he said. "Not everyone can run up and down a basketball court. Not everyone has the skills to just do a golf tournament. This is something that pretty much everyone can do—all ages and all skill levels."

Langenfeld said the event lends itself to getting non-players to attend, too, which boosts sales of raffle tickets. "We always tell the membership that even if they don't want to participate in the tournament, they are more than welcome to come and hang out with their brothers and sisters."

"Cornhole is a very social activity," he added. "With teams of two, partners stand at opposite ends of the court, and you share your end of the court with one of your opponents for the duration of the match. Usually conversations start like, 'What office are you from?' or 'How many years do you have in?' and can go anywhere from there. I love seeing the 30-year vets talking it up with the newer members."

Rolling for dollars, '70s style

With help from carriers from across her state, Illinois State Association MDA Coordinator Miriah McMillan organized a roller rink fundraiser with a 1970s theme.

After selling tickets to both postal employees and the public at $25 ($15 for youngsters) and selling raffle tickets, the event at a rink in Summit, just outside Chicago, brought in more than $1,500.

The "Groovy Disco Party," as they called it, was especially popular among those who actually remember the 1970s, she said.

"Of course, there was an older crowd. You know, people were nostalgic about their childhood," McMillan added. The event, hosted by a DJ spinning all the old-school music, included friendly skating and clothing competitions.

McMillan, a member of South Suburban Merged Branch 4016, leveraged the talents of carriers across the state to make the event a success.

It started with the idea from the former state MDA coordinator, Hope Miles of Chicago Branch 11.

"She came along and developed the committee of us. We were all from different branches in the state of Illinois," McMillan said. "We came together, we delegated different tasks such as securing a venue, advertising, decoration, theme."

The group members brought benefits like business connections in the area, which Diana Hani-Taylor of Oak Brook Branch 825 used to secure prizes for raffles, and Tenisha Hart of Melrose Park Branch 2183, who created many prizes by hand.

"It really came together because we all played our roles and made it happen because we wanted it to be successful," McMillan said. "Nothing was just on one person."

McMillan is planning another skating event this year—this time with a 1980s theme. She hopes to invite an MDA ambassador to participate.

MDA's mission

Since it was founded, MDA has used the funds raised by letter carriers to support medical research on dozens of neuromuscular diseases to develop medications and treatments that ease symptoms, some of which might extend life spans. For instance, most children with Duchenne muscular dystrophy, the most common and severe type of the disease, once died in their teens. Today, there are adults in their 40s living with Duchenne.

MDA is the nation's largest nonprofit supporter of research on neuromuscular diseases, funding hundreds of physicians and scientists in the struggle to free children, and the families who love them, from the harm caused by muscular dystrophy and by more than 40 related muscle-debilitating diseases, including amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS). MDA's efforts have contributed to numerous major advances in muscle biology and therapy development.

MDA has been involved in research into basic muscle and nerve biology since its inception, when little was known about how muscles were formed or how they functioned. Since then, thousands of published scientific papers have explained how the tissues work and what goes wrong in neuromuscular diseases, building a knowledge base for finding treatments. MDA funding supported the research that led to the identification of the genetic causes of dozens of diseases, starting with the discovery of the dystrophin gene in 1986. This research is paying dividends as new medications and therapies are being developed.

The charity also supports children and adults with neuromuscular diseases, and their families, by improving their quality of life. One way it provides this support is by sponsoring summer camps for children. At these adaptive camps, children participate in traditional summer camp events, including swimming, arts and crafts, sports and games. Letter carriers not only help fund these camps—some carriers volunteer their time to work directly with the children.

MDA Honor Roll

To recognize the efforts of NALC branches in supporting MDA's mission each year, The Postal Record publishes the MDA fundraising results of every branch from the previous year, as reported to us by MDA. The branches listed on the following pages have helped to fulfill the shared vision of support for NALC's official charity.

If your branch didn't participate in the fundraising drive for MDA last year, perhaps it is time to contact your branch leadership and volunteer as an MDA coordinator or event volunteer. If your branch raised funds last year but you do not see your branch's donations listed or the amount is inaccurate, please contact NALC Assistant to the President for Community Services Davidson at mda@nalc.org or 202-662-2489 as soon as possible.

"Our commitment to MDA has never stopped—it has only grown," President Renfroe said. "The potential is unlimited. Any letter carrier can organize events, volunteer or participate. We are proud of what our union has accomplished to make the lives of people affected by neuromuscular diseases better. I can't wait to see what letter carriers accomplish together for MDA again this year!" PR
